COMMISSION.

VICTORIA R.

VICTORIA, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith. To our Trusty and Well-beloved Thomas Aiskew Larcom and William E. Delves Broughton, Esquires, Captains in our Corps of Engineers, and Charles Sharman Crawford, Esquire, greeting: Whereas We have thought it expedient that a Commission should forthwith issue for the purpose of inquiring and reporting what alterations may be beneficially made in the Number and Boundaries of Poor Law Unions and Electoral Divisions in that part of Our United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland called Ireland, having due regard to the extent, population, and valuation of such Unions and Electoral Divisions respectively.

Now know ye that We, being well satisfied of your zeal, ability, and fitness for the said office, have authorized and appointed, and do by these presents authorize and appoint you the said Thomas Aiskew Larcom, William E. Delves Broughton, and Charles Sharman Crawford, to be our Commissioners for the purposes aforesaid. And We do hereby give and grant to you, or any two of you, full power and authority to call before you such of the Guardians of the said Unions, and all such other persons as you may judge likely to afford you any information upon the subject of this inquiry, and to inquire of and concerning the premises by all other lawful ways and means whatsoever.

And we do by these Presents Will and Ordain that this Our Commission shall continue in full force and virtue, and that you Our said Commissioners, or any two of you, may from time to time proceed in the execution thereof, and of every matter and thing therein contained, although the same be not continued from time to time by adjournment.

And our further Will and Pleasure is that you our said Commissioners, upon due inquiry into the premises, do report to Us in writing, under your hands and seals, your several proceedings under and by virtue of this our Commission, together with what you shall find touching or concerning the premises. And We further authorize and empower you to report to Us your proceedings under this Commission from time to time, should you judge it expedient so to do.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, the Seventeenth Day of March, 1848, in the Eleventh Year of Our Reign.

By Her Majesty's Command,

G. GREY.

SIR,

In fulfilment of our letter of the 30th ult., we beg to transmit herewith a Second Report, containing the details of our proposed re-arrangement of the districts therein alluded to.

We beg to add, that we have confined this Report to a very small number of Unions, in compliance with the wish of the Poor Law Commissioners that it should contain only such as are definitely arranged on this date; but on the 29th instant, a larger number will be complete, which we shall also transmit as a Third Report. Hoping these may be in time for the approaching half-yearly period,

We have, &c.,

REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Poor Law Boundary Commission Office,
Custom House,
Dublin, 10*th Sept.*, 1849.

SINCE we had the honour, in February last, to lay before Your Majesty our First Report, containing the general opinions we had formed, and the conclusions at which we had arrived, in regard to the alterations which may beneficially be made in the boundaries of Poor Law Unions and Electoral Divisions in Ireland, we have been sedulously engaged in revising the present boundaries, on the principles laid down in that Report; and beg to detail the progress we have subsequently made.

As an example of the course we proposed to follow, we annexed to our First Report a provisional Schedule of the changes we thought desirable in the Union of Ballina, as regards the reduction of extent, both in Unions and Electoral Divisions; bringing the former, as nearly as is now practicable, to a size which should leave no part of the country more than seven miles from a workhouse, and reducing the latter to an area which should allow the exertions of all parties to be beneficially applied and felt; while, instead of bounding them by arbitrary lines, we endeavoured to compose them of single properties, or groups of properties, in order that the stimulus of individual interest might not be extinguished, but exerted for the improvement of the country and the condition of the people.

On this principle we have completed the preliminary arrangement of the Electoral Divisions comprised in the Unions in the annexed list. See List annexed.

The Session of Parliament having now closed, and the Committees of both Houses, appointed for inquiring into the Irish Poor Law, having recommended the adoption of the principles announced by us, we were proceeding, in accordance with the instructions of Your Majesty's Government, to make known in the country the several changes we propose, in order to collect the opinions of parties interested, and consider the objections and representations which may be made.

It was then our intention to have reported finally upon the Unions and Electoral Divisions by provinces and counties; but we were informed by the Poor Law Commissioners, under date 21st ultimo, that they are desirous of carrying into effect these changes in as many Unions as may be finally reported on by us on this day, preparatory to the 29th instant, when the accounts of the several Unions are made up for audit, and when, consequently, the adjustment of the liabilities of parts of Unions to be detached may be settled without the order of a Special Audit; and we are therefore induced at once to lay before your Majesty those in the present Unions of Ballina and Skibbereen, where it will be seen that we propose to divide 2 Unions and 29 Electoral Divisions into 5 Unions with 77 Electoral Divisions. And we hope, before the 29th instant, to have finally decided several others of those, the schedules of which are now circulated in the country for the information of parties interested. These will constitute a Third Report; and we trust, in a series of such Reports, to lay the whole rapidly before Your Majesty.

See Schedules annexed of—Ballina,
Belmullett,
Killala, Skibbereen, and Skull.

EIGHTH REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Poor Law Boundary Commission Office,
Custom House,
Dublin, 1st Feb. 1850.

In virtue of the authority contained in the Commission, under which we are appointed to Report from time to time, what alterations may be beneficially made in the number and boundaries of Poor Law Unions and Electoral Divisions in Ireland; we have the honor to transmit this our Eighth Report.

And we beg also to annex to this Report, a map showing the progress which has up to this time been made in carrying out the duties entrusted to us. It will be seen, that we have reported finally on the Unions in the following Counties:—Mayo, Sligo, Donegal (part of), Roscommon, Leitrim, Longford, Kerry, Clare, Cork (part of), Galway, and Limerick, comprising the greater part of the South and West of Ireland. The 72 Unions either wholly, or for the greater part, in these counties, are contained in the Schedules attached to our Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, and present Reports, and they comprise the recommendations we have thought it our duty to make in regard to the changes which appear to us desirable in Unions, as well as in Electoral Divisions.

Divisions finally reported on.

On the 24th ultimo we were informed by the Poor Law Commissioners, that it was probable the changes recommended in the Electoral Divisions would be carried into effect immediately, but those recommended in the Unions, deferred for the present. We have accordingly, at the request of the Commissioners, furnished them with schedules of the Townlands we propose should constitute the new Electoral Divisions, grouped according to the limits of the old unions.

Special Schedules for the Poor Law Commissioners.

In addition to the districts thus finally reported upon, it will be seen by the map that we have completed provisional schedules of the Unions in the following counties, viz.—Cavan, Westmeath, Queen's County, Tipperary, Fermanagh (part of), Waterford, Wexford, Carlow, Kilkenny, and Donegal (remainder of).

Districts of which Provisional Schedules are circulation.

These schedules set forth the changes we propose in the Unions and Electoral Divisions, founded on our present information in regard to them, and they are circulated in the country for the purpose of obtaining the remarks or objections of all parties interested, with any additional information they may be desirous of affording in support of their views. When these schedules have been circulated for a sufficient time, it is our practice to take each up in succession, and revise it carefully with all the communications which have been received in reference to it. This demands much care and consideration, but it enables us to meet the views of many parties, and generally to satisfy all that their interests and wishes have received every attention consistent with those of others.

Object of the Provisional Schedules.

There is yet a third stage of progress, viz.—those Unions which we have prepared provisionally, and which are in course of printing for circulation. This will be seen to comprise nearly all the remainder of the Districts requiring extensive change.

Districts prepared and printed for circulation.

In the remainder of the country, the Unions and Electoral Divisions, generally, appear to give satisfaction, and we expect only isolated cases to deal with.

Among the changes recommended in the Unions comprised in our recent Reports, the cases of large towns have engaged our serious attention, and we have in several of them, recommended a considerable reduction in the area at present allotted to the Electoral Divisions which contain them. It has been our object, having regard to the natural and average state of the country, rather than its present condition, to allot to the town only such a space as may be supposed to be more immediately influenced, or benefited by vicinity to it, and to restore to the rural electorates the more remote portions of the present Town Divisions, in those cases where they were unduly large.

Towns.

Object of the Commissioners in regard to Town Divisions.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

Representations in favour of extensive areas,

We have received many representations, in regard to the increased pressure which will thus be thrown upon the rates of the towns, in their present crowded state; but the arguments appeared to us as not bearing permanently on the question of boundaries. Among the more prominent complaints, for example, was the number of paupers now thrown upon the town rates by the rural evictions from other parts of the Unions, but this appeared no argument for an extension of the contributary district, as it was not stated to be from that district, but from the whole union, and even from other unions and counties, that the evictions had taken place, and it would be manifestly unjust to tax lands at a distance of three or four miles, for evictions made at eight or ten, or more.

And applications for further reduction.

On the other hand, we have received numerous applications for a still further reduction of the areas of the town divisions than we have felt justified in recommending. We may instance the cases of Limerick and Waterford, from which we have been urged to abstract the rural districts lying beyond the Shannon and Suir, respectively. These applications were not made without good grounds, but in the former we found that the original Electoral Division, which was coterminous with the county of the city, had already been reduced from 22,000 to 9,023, in the year 1845 by the Poor Law Commissioners; and under all the circumstances of the city in its present state, we have not felt justified in recommending any further reduction. On the latter we have not yet finally decided, but in our provisional schedule we have proposed a considerable reduction.

In the case of many of the larger cities and towns, indeed, we should have perhaps felt disposed even to confine the limits of town rating to the municipal boundary, if we were now for the first time proposing an area of rating for them, but finding at present a more extensive area, and a population which in many cases there is reason to suppose is increased since the date of the last census in 1841, we have not proposed so extreme a reduction, while we nevertheless have recommended as much diminution as we felt could be safely made.

Small area of the Town Divisions in the North, with moderate rates.

In support of our general view of reducing the town areas, we may state that we find the principal towns in the North of Ireland; as Londonderry, Belfast, and others, with very small areas; in the case of Londonderry, only 767 acres; while the rates on those towns have been moderate. In fact the very magnitude of the rateable district has been represented to us, and with great apparent reason, as one of the causes which has led to the present pressure on the rates, from the laxity which has been introduced by it, and not only as having caused it, but as likely to be ruinous in the end to the towns themselves, by maintaining within them, at the charge of the rates, a population so much greater that their industrial wants can require.

Rates stated to be increased by large areas.

Towns stated to have but little control over the increase of their rates.

On the other hand it is stated, that the towns have but little control over the increasing number chargeable upon them, from the facility with which settlements are obtained, by paupers evicted from the country and received into the small holdings and tenements of persons who make a profit by the lodgings they let. It cannot be denied that the influx of these persons is a hardship upon the more wealthy householders, but it would be a yet greater hardship upon the farmers residing at a considerable distance from the town, if they were to be taxed for their support, as there can be no doubt that however poor those persons may be, their admittance in the first instance arises rather from the immediate profit derived from them, than from motives of benevolence.

It has also been urged that the supply of labourers furnished by towns, is a reason why the rural districts should contribute to their support, and we have not lost sight of this consideration. It may be hoped indeed that the general reduction of areas, in the rural Electoral Divisions, will absorb again into agricultural employment, a portion of the population now forced for refuge upon the towns.

General condition of Towns in the South, West, and centre of Ireland.

It is to be observed that towns vary through every gradation, from thriving commercial cities such as we have noticed above, to the larger cities and towns of the interior, in but few of which any mixed industry is to be found; and downwards to the smaller towns which can be considered as little more than densely peopled rural districts. In nearly all, however, so far as relates to the South, West, and centre of Ireland, the case is the same in regard to the magnitude of the area, and the present pressure. How far these circumstances are cause and effect, it is difficult to determine; but in the sense of our instructions, to propose such arrangements as appear to us most equitable, we have not hesitated in general to recommend a considerable reduction, so far as justice to the remote rural districts demands, without impoverishing the town divisions below the requirements of their population, in the permanent and natural condition of the country; and it has been satisfactory to us to find that even after the reductions we propose, there will still, in almost every case, remain a valuation nearly as good in proportion to the population as at present.

Proposed increase of areas of Town Divisions in some cases

We think it right also to state, that in pursuance of our wish, as expressed above, to attach to each town so much of the adjacent country as may be fairly considered to belong to it, we have increased the rateable areas in some cases, by the addition of townlands not before included in them, but in these cases also we have not been able to meet the full extent of the applications made to us.

The areas, accordingly, attached to towns, will generally be found to be limited to lands within a circuit of one or two miles, and so far as has been practicable, coterminous with the boundaries of properties. In some cases, as Castlebar, Cavan, Abbeyleix, and some others, the town divisions will be found in a great measure coterminous with the properties on which they are situated, and extending beyond the limits we have assigned in other cases. This has been done at the request of the proprietors, who have desired that the more remote portions of their property should be made to contribute to the town rates.

Exact circular areas not generally desirable.

In the case of Sligo, we found the area of the town division an exact circle of one mile. That limit, having been originally the boundary of the town under a local Act, the 43rd of Geo. III., and adopted as the boundary for election of representatives by the Reform Act in 1832; was retained as the Poor Law boundary at the original formation of the union. This, in our provisional schedules, we had proposed to enlarge, but in compliance with the representations we received on the subject, have left it unaltered.

But although the Poor Law Commissioners have power under 2nd Vic., c. 1, to divide townlands, in fixing the boundaries of towns of 10,000 inhabitants or more, we have not thought an exact circle sufficiently important to induce us to recommend it in any other case.

Schedules of the following Unions and Electoral Divisions are attached, viz.:—Killarney, Dingle, Listowel, Killorglin, Tralee, Castleisland, Cahersiveen, Athlone, Rathkeale, Croom, Limerick, Glin, Milford, Kanturk, Millstreet, and Macroom.

During the month of February the Unions in the counties of Cork and Tipperary will be completed.

FOURTEENTH REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Poor Law Boundary Commission Office,
Custom House, Dublin, 1st August 1850.

We have now the honor to transmit our Final Report on the alterations we are desirous of recommending in the Boundaries of Poor Law Unions and Electoral Divisions in Ireland.

The accompanying Schedules contain the following Unions and their Electoral Divisions, viz.—Rathdown, Celbridge, Dublin South, Dublin North, Newry, Armagh, Kilkeel, Lisburn, Lurgan, Banbridge, Downpatrick, Newtownards, Larne, Belfast, Ballycastle, Ballymena, Antrim, Londonderry, and Newtownlimavady, which, together with those appended to our former Reports, complete the whole of Ireland.

In our First Report we stated the general principles on which we proposed to act, in regard to the Unions and the rural Electoral Divisions generally, and in our Eighth Report we adverted to the peculiar circumstances of Electoral Divisions which contain towns.

In regard to Unions, it was our wish that no part of the country should be more than seven or eight miles from its poor-house; and in regard to Electoral Divisions, that they should be of such size and such condition as to population and value, as might enable the proprietors, farmers, and inhabitants to employ their capital and labour with the greatest advantage to themselves and to the community. The combination of these desirable objects could in many cases be obtained only in a very limited degree, because every part of the country, every townland, varies in respect of them, while only those townlands which are contiguous can be joined in the same Division. But if the perfect combination of these elementary conditions of area, population and value, in the several Divisions could have been made theoretically equal, it was desirable also to place the lands of the same proprietor in the same Electoral Division, or to constitute a Division, consisting of as few separate properties as possible, in order to create in proprietors a disposition to exert themselves to diminish the amount of relief required, as well as to give them the power of doing so. But in this we were met by the indefinite nature of the term "proprietor" as well as the very different size of estates. The owner in fee had frequently but a small interest in the land, while the interest of those who held leases under him varied through every gradation, from the perpetuity downwards to the ordinary lease of 21 years, or 7 years, or less. Many townlands and many estates were corporate or church property, more were under the control of the Court of Chancery, and some were common-lands. These were the general object of dread to all around them, and were frequently unable alone to support the poor who had been allowed to congregate upon them without means of employment; such circumstances, together with the occasional intervention of mountain tracts and waste lands, made it impracticable that we should fix beforehand any very exact maximum, minimum, or average, either of size, population, or value, to guide us in the formation of Electoral Divisions. But we have not failed to keep in view the objects to be attained by such circumstances if it had been possible to fix them, viz., as before said:—such size and condition as should in each case best conduce to the improvement of the country. This necessity for weighing separately all the circumstances of every Electoral Division, with the difficulty of procuring correct information on many of them, not only added very greatly to our labour and anxiety, but increased indefinitely the liability to error even in our ultimate recommendations; accordingly we are far from assuming that we have attained the desired object beyond a moderate approximation, and we feel that there is no general rule by which the Electoral Divisions we have recommended can be measured, theoretic accuracy being absolutely unattainable.

We annex to this Report a comparative table showing the average area, population, and value, of the Electoral Divisions of each Union, as recommended by us, and as formerly constituted.

In regard to the Electoral Divisions which contain towns, peculiar difficulties presented themselves. In the South, West, and Central districts of the country, we found annexed to the town as a rating district, the whole of the parish in which it was situated, and sometimes several parishes were combined to form the district. This usually produced very large divisions, and in some cases led to the town being situated at the extremity of the Electoral Division rather than the centre. We found, as a general rule, that the largest Town Divisions were usually those in which the greatest pressure existed. We were far from assuming that the converse of this state of things would of necessity exist, i. e., that the pressure would immediately, or in all cases diminish with the area, but we had little doubt that injustice was done to the more distant rural portions of those Electoral Divisions, by the support being thrown upon them of the persons who swelled the population of the towns. From this we endeavoured to liberate them, by confining the Electoral Division to the space benefited by its proximity to the town, and we departed from the parish boundaries, when by doing so we could make the town more central. We were also anxious in these as well as the rural divisions that the boundaries should be the boundaries of property as far as possible.

We confidently hope that these arrangements will be found satisfactory, and that the diminution of the area included in the town divisions will offer a considerable obstacle to the too rapid process of eviction, which has been stated to prevail in some parts of the country, by inducing the owners of tenements in the towns to be more particular in the admission into them of parties likely at a future period to become chargeable on the rates. If the poor, when dispossessed of their holdings, at once retired upon the workhouse, they would be charged to the Electoral Division from which they came, and it would be the interest of the rate-payers of that Electoral Division, either to assist in their emigration, or provide them with labour mutually profitable. At present they congregate in the towns, and remain there for a sufficient time to become chargeable to them, when they ultimately, as is almost invariably the case, fall back upon the workhouse.

The change from small to large farms and holdings is an inevitable accompaniment of the agricultural movement now in progress, but it is desirable it should take place in the manner which may produce the least amount of suffering. At present the facility of obtaining settlement in the towns is a direct premium upon rural eviction.

We annex a table, which is the completion for the whole country, of one presented to Parliament during the present Session, showing the area, population, and value of the divisions which contain towns of more than 3,000 inhabitants, as recommended by us, and before our operations commenced.

It only remains that we should describe the mode in which subsequently to our First Report we have proceeded. In that Report we stated that we had collected tabular statements of the area, population, and value of every townland in Ireland, and compiled maps, showing, in addition to the usual territorial boundaries, the extent and boundaries of such estates as consist of one or more townlands and at the same time the boundaries of the then existing Unions and Electoral Divisions, for comparison with them. This information appeared necessary, to enable us to test by authentic data, the various complaints which were brought before us. It was a work of considerable labour, but it has proved of the utmost value to us.

In our First Report we appended, as an example, maps and explanatory tables of the Union of Ballina, exhibiting its original extent and sub-divisions, with the changes we proposed to recommend. That Union originally extended over 504,115 statute acres, or about 800 square miles, divided into 17 Electoral Divisions. We proposed to divide it, with a portion of the adjoining Union of Sligo, into four Unions and into 53 Electoral Divisions, the boundaries of which are nearly coterminous with estates. This Report having been laid before the Committee of both Houses of Parliament then sitting, and the principles on which we proposed to proceed, having been approved by them, and recommended to the Government for adoption, we lost no time, under the instructions of Sir George Grey, in proceeding to carry out the same class and system of change in remodelling the whole of the Unions and Electoral Divisions of Ireland, so far as appeared necessary from the representations which were made to us, and the inquiries we instituted in consequence. But it was desirable to make known these proposed changes in the country to all parties interested, before we finally recommended their adoption. For this purpose we caused a Schedule to be printed of each Union, as we completed it, exhibiting the townlands which we proposed should constitute each of its Electoral Divisions, and distributed them widely through the Clerk of the Union, besides sending them by post to all parties who had communicated with us on the subject, and making them known by advertisements in the Dublin and local newspapers. These Schedules comprised not only the names of the townlands, but their area, population, and value, with the names of their proprietors, as returned to us by the Union Clerks, and a reference to the sheet of the Ordnance Map on which their topography was to be found. In circulating the Schedules we invited corrections in our data, wherever they might be found incorrect, and remarks or objections founded upon them. The effect was, as we anticipated it would be, to call very general and anxious attention to the subject in all its bearings, and we received numerous representations, as well objections as approvals. The information appended to the Schedule and the reference to the Maps led persons to examine these sources of information and to come to the discussion prepared with such facts and knowledge as enabled us to make other changes with advantage, or to confirm those we had proposed, with satisfaction to the parties concerned, as well as to ourselves.

We felt deeply the serious responsibility which attached to this duty. It not only was to be hoped that the public burthen of the Poor Law would be more easily borne, and its administration facilitated for the benefit of the recipients of relief, but that every individual proprietor would find his interests enlisted in that administration, by feeling that his exertions might be beneficial to himself, as well as to the community. It was probable the hopes which were excited could not be fully realized, but we felt that, according as we placed a townland in one division or another, on one side or the other of a boundary line to be recommended by us, would its proprietor conceive himself benefited or injured. It required a stern sense of duty and responsibility, to weigh and decide upon questions in which personal interests were so closely concerned, questions which affected every holder of land in the entire country. The most patient attention was indispensable to the numerous and conflicting statements and representations we received by letters and correspondence, as well as from those who waited on us at our office during the many hours of each day which we set apart for that purpose, and still we could scarcely expect that any attention or consideration would enable us to accede to the wishes of all parties; but we hoped to satisfy, and have every reason to believe that we have satisfied all parties, that their cases have been fully investigated, and their wishes met so far as was in our power consistently with the demands of others.

Gradually, Division by Division, and Union by Union, this sifting and arranging became complete. We then availed ourselves of that clause in our Commission which enabled us to report from time to time, and the dates of our subsequent Reports, with this statement of the tedious process through which every fact and figure had to pass, will, we trust, show that we proceeded with all diligence in the anxious duty entrusted to us.

The whole of Ireland is now complete. The 66,700 townlands have been examined with all the facts connected with them, not only each by itself, but as affected by combination with, or severance from those around it.

The changes, as was foreseen, have been greatest in the west, south, and centre of the kingdom, while in the east and north-east they have been comparatively few. In many of the Unions, indeed, of Ulster, we should gladly have avoided recommending any change, from a strong feeling that change, by the unsettlement of what was already established, and on the whole working satisfactorily, was itself an evil, and only to be justified by the hope of obtaining a greater amount of good. But it seemed to us unreasonable to resist all change, i. e., to refuse individual adjustment of exceptional cases, merely because they were few; and we have accordingly given the same patient investigation to such cases in the north, as to the more general complaints in the other parts of the country. We are therefore enabled in this our final Report to say that there has been no complaint of any description relating to boundaries from any part of the country, which has not been fully investigated, and such changes recommended in consequence as after every inquiry seemed to us to be called for.

We have only to hope they will prove as satisfactory as under the difficulties of the question could be expected, and that the Poor Law Commissioners, in carrying into effect such as may be assented to, will not hesitate to call for any further explanation or information they may find necessary.

We feel it our duty to express the very valuable assistance we have received from our excellent Secretary, Mr. Edward Singleton, to whose indefatigable exertions we are greatly indebted.

FOURTEENTH REPORT.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

Poor Law Boundary Commission Office,
Custom House, Dublin, 1*st August* 1850.

We have now the honor to transmit our Final Report on the alterations we are desirous of recommending in the Boundaries of Poor Law Unions and Electoral Divisions in Ireland.

The accompanying Schedules contain the following Unions and their Electoral Divisions, viz.—Rathdown, Celbridge, Dublin South, Dublin North, Newry, Armagh, Kilkeel, Lisburn, Lurgan, Banbridge, Downpatrick, Newtownards, Larne, Belfast, Ballycastle, Ballymena, Antrim, Londonderry, and Newtownlimavady, which, together with those appended to our former Reports, complete the whole of Ireland.

In our First Report we stated the general principles on which we proposed to act, in regard to the Unions and the rural Electoral Divisions generally, and in our Eighth Report we adverted to the peculiar circumstances of Electoral Divisions which contain towns.

In regard to Unions, it was our wish that no part of the country should be more than seven or eight miles from its poor-house; and in regard to Electoral Divisions, that they should be of such size and such condition as to population and value, as might enable the proprietors, farmers, and inhabitants to employ their capital and labour with the greatest advantage to themselves and to the community. The combination of these desirable objects could in many cases be obtained only in a very limited degree, because every part of the country, every townland, varies in respect of them, while only those townlands which are contiguous can be joined in the same Division. But if the perfect combination of these elementary conditions of area, population and value, in the several Divisions could have been made theoretically equal, it was desirable also to place the lands of the same proprietor in the same Electoral Division, or to constitute a Division, consisting of as few separate properties as possible, in order to create in proprietors a disposition to exert themselves to diminish the amount of relief required, as well as to give them the power of doing so. But in this we were met by the indefinite nature of the term "proprietor" as well as the very different size of estates. The owner in fee had frequently but a small interest in the land, while the interest of those who held leases under him varied through every gradation, from the perpetuity downwards to the ordinary lease of 21 years, or 7 years, or less. Many townlands and many estates were corporate or church property, more were under the control of the Court of Chancery, and some were common-lands. These were the general object of dread to all around them, and were frequently unable alone to support the poor who had been allowed to congregate upon them without means of employment; such circumstances, together with the occasional intervention of mountain tracts and waste lands, made it impracticable that we should fix beforehand any very exact maximum, minimum, or average, either of size, population, or value, to guide us in the formation of Electoral Divisions. But we have not failed to keep in view the objects to be attained by such circumstances if it had been possible to fix them, viz., as before said:—such size and condition as should in each case best conduce to the improvement of the country. This necessity for weighing separately all the circumstances of every Electoral Division, with the difficulty of procuring correct information on many of them, not only added very greatly to our labour and anxiety, but increased indefinitely the liability to error even in our ultimate recommendations; accordingly we are far from assuming that we have attained the desired object beyond a moderate approximation, and we feel that there is no general rule by which the Electoral Divisions we have recommended can be measured, theoretic accuracy being absolutely unattainable.

We annex to this Report a comparative table showing the average area, population, and value, of the Electoral Divisions of each Union, as recommended by us, and as formerly constituted.

In regard to the Electoral Divisions which contain towns, peculiar difficulties presented themselves. In the South, West, and Central districts of the country, we found annexed to the town as a rating district, the whole of the parish in which it was situated, and sometimes several parishes were combined to form the district. This usually produced very large divisions, and in some cases led to the town being situated at the extremity of the Electoral Division rather than the centre. We found, as a general rule, that the largest Town Divisions were usually those in which the greatest pressure existed. We were far from assuming that the converse of this state of things would of necessity exist, i. e., that the pressure would immediately, or in all cases diminish with the area, but we had little doubt that injustice was done to the more distant rural portions of those Electoral Divisions, by the support being thrown upon them of the persons who swelled the population of the towns. From this we endeavoured to liberate them, by confining the Electoral Division to the space benefited by its proximity to the town, and we departed from the parish boundaries, when by doing so we could make the town more central. We were also anxious in these as well as the rural divisions that the boundaries should be the boundaries of property as far as possible.

We confidently hope that these arrangements will be found satisfactory, and that the diminution of the area included in the town divisions will offer a considerable obstacle to the too rapid process of eviction, which has been stated to prevail in some parts of the country, by inducing the owners of tenements in the towns to be more particular in the admission into them of parties likely at a future period to become chargeable on the rates. If the poor, when dispossessed of their holdings, at once retired upon the workhouse, they would be charged to the Electoral Division from which they came, and it would be the interest of the rate-payers of that Electoral Division, either to assist in their emigration, or provide them with labour mutually profitable. At present they congregate in the towns, and remain there for a sufficient time to become chargeable to them, when they ultimately, as is almost invariably the case, fall back upon the workhouse.

The change from small to large farms and holdings is an inevitable accompaniment of the agricultural movement now in progress, but it is desirable it should take place in the manner which may produce the least amount of suffering. At present the facility of obtaining settlement in the towns is a direct premium upon rural eviction.

We annex a table, which is the completion for the whole country, of one presented to Parliament during the present Session, showing the area, population, and value of the divisions which contain towns of more than 3,000 inhabitants, as recommended by us, and before our operations commenced.

It only remains that we should describe the mode in which subsequently to our First Report we have proceeded. In that Report we stated that we had collected tabular statements of the area, population, and value of every townland in Ireland, and compiled maps, showing, in addition to the usual territorial boundaries, the extent and boundaries of such estates as consist of one or more townlands and at the same time the boundaries of the then existing Unions and Electoral Divisions, for comparison with them. This information appeared necessary, to enable us to test by authentic data, the various complaints which were brought before us. It was a work of considerable labour, but it has proved of the utmost value to us.

In our First Report we appended, as an example, maps and explanatory tables of the Union of Ballina, exhibiting its original extent and sub-divisions, with the changes we proposed to recommend. That Union originally extended over 504,115

statute acres, or about 800 square miles, divided into 17 Electoral Divisions. We proposed to divide it, with a portion of the adjoining Union of Sligo, into four Unions and into 53 Electoral Divisions, the boundaries of which are nearly coterminous with estates. This Report having been laid before the Committee of both Houses of Parliament then sitting, and the principles on which we proposed to proceed, having been approved by them, and recommended to the Government for adoption, we lost no time, under the instructions of Sir George Grey, in proceeding to carry out the same class and system of change in remodelling the whole of the Unions and Electoral Divisions of Ireland, so far as appeared necessary from the representations which were made to us, and the inquiries we instituted in consequence. But it was desirable to make known these proposed changes in the country to all parties interested, before we finally recommended their adoption. For this purpose we caused a Schedule to be printed of each Union, as we completed it, exhibiting the townlands which we proposed should constitute each of its Electoral Divisions, and distributed them widely through the Clerk of the Union, besides sending them by post to all parties who had communicated with us on the subject, and making them known by advertisements in the Dublin and local newspapers. These Schedules comprised not only the names of the townlands, but their area, population, and value, with the names of their proprietors, as returned to us by the Union Clerks, and a reference to the sheet of the Ordnance Map on which their topography was to be found. In circulating the Schedules we invited corrections in our data, wherever they might be found incorrect, and remarks or objections founded upon them. The effect was, as we anticipated it would be, to call very general and anxious attention to the subject in all its bearings, and we received numerous representations, as well objections as approvals. The information appended to the Schedule and the reference to the Maps led persons to examine these sources of information and to come to the discussion prepared with such facts and knowledge as enabled us to make other changes with advantage, or to confirm those we had proposed, with satisfaction to the parties concerned, as well as to ourselves.

We felt deeply the serious responsibility which attached to this duty. It not only was to be hoped that the public burthen of the Poor Law would be more easily borne, and its administration facilitated for the benefit of the recipients of relief, but that every individual proprietor would find his interests enlisted in that administration, by feeling that his exertions might be beneficial to himself, as well as to the community. It was probable the hopes which were excited could not be fully realized, but we felt that, according as we placed a townland in one division or another, on one side or the other of a boundary line to be recommended by us, would its proprietor conceive himself benefited or injured. It required a stern sense of duty and responsibility, to weigh and decide upon questions in which personal interests were so closely concerned, questions which affected every holder of land in the entire country. The most patient attention was indispensable to the numerous and conflicting statements and representations we received by letters and correspondence, as well as from those who waited on us at our office during the many hours of each day which we set apart for that purpose, and still we could scarcely expect that any attention or consideration would enable us to accede to the wishes of all parties; but we hoped to satisfy, and have every reason to believe that we have satisfied all parties, that their cases have been fully investigated, and their wishes met so far as was in our power consistently with the demands of others.

Gradually, Division by Division, and Union by Union, this sifting and arranging became complete. We then availed ourselves of that clause in our Commission which enabled us to report from time to time, and the dates of our subsequent Reports, with this statement of the tedious process through which every fact and figure had to pass, will, we trust, show that we proceeded with all diligence in the anxious duty entrusted to us.

The whole of Ireland is now complete. The 66,700 townlands have been examined with all the facts connected with them, not only each by itself, but as affected by combination with, or severance from those around it.

The changes, as was foreseen, have been greatest in the west, south, and centre of the kingdom, while in the east and north-east they have been comparatively few. In many of the Unions, indeed, of Ulster, we should gladly have avoided recommending any change, from a strong feeling that change, by the unsettlement of what was already established, and on the whole working satisfactorily, was itself an evil, and only to be justified by the hope of obtaining a greater amount of good. But it seemed to us unreasonable to resist all change, i. e., to refuse individual adjustment of exceptional cases, merely because they were few; and we have accordingly given the same patient investigation to such cases in the north, as to the more general complaints in the other parts of the country. We are therefore enabled in this our final Report to say that there has been no complaint of any description relating to boundaries from any part of the country, which has not been fully investigated, and such changes recommended in consequence as after every inquiry seemed to us to be called for.

We have only to hope they will prove as satisfactory as under the difficulties of the question could be expected, and that the Poor Law Commissioners, in carrying into effect such as may be assented to, will not hesitate to call for any further explanation or information they may find necessary.

We feel it our duty to express the very valuable assistance we have received from our excellent Secretary, Mr. Edward Singleton, to whose indefatigable exertions we are greatly indebted.

POOR LAW BOUNDARIES (IRELAND).

THE IRISH POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS,

ON THE MEASURES TAKEN FOR CARRYING INTO EFFECT THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE BOUNDARY COMMISSIONERS.

Presented to both Houses of Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

SIR,

Poor Law Commission,
Dublin, February 21, 1850.

IN compliance with the request of Secretary Sir George Grey, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland desire me to state, for his information, the measures which they have taken for carrying into effect the recommendation of the Boundary Commissioners, as to the alteration of the limits of Unions and Electoral Divisions in Ireland.

The First Report of the Boundary Commissioners, presented to Parliament early in the Session of 1849, furnished a general outline of the proposed new arrangements, and did not contain any specific recommendations of Boundaries, except as to the union of Ballina, and the recommendations as to that union were not considered to be final. The final recommendations as to Ballina were given in the Second Report of the Boundary Commissioners, bearing date 10th September, and in their Third Report, dated 26th September, 1849, which Report likewise contained the proposed boundaries of the Skibbereen, Skull, Bantry, Castletown, Dunmanway, Sligo, and Galway unions.

The Fourth Boundary Report, containing the boundaries of the Bandon, Clonakilty, Westport, Ballinrobe, and Oughterard unions, bore date the 29th September, 1849.

The steps taken by the Poor Law Commissioners, in pursuance of these several Reports, were as follows:—

On the 29th September they declared the new unions of Belmullet, Killala, Dromore West, and Castletown; and on the same date altered the Electoral Divisions of Ballina and Bantry unions; on the 3rd October they declared the new unions of Skull and Clonakilty, and altered the Electoral Divisions of Skibbereen, Bandon, and Dunmanway unions; and on the 8th October they declared the new unions of Newport and Oughterard, and altered the Electoral Divisions of Westport union.

These operations were all which the Commissioners could proceed with on receipt of the First, Second, Third, and Fourth Reports of the Boundary Commissioners, for although the new boundaries of the unions of Sligo, Ballinrobe, and Galway, and of their respective Electoral Divisions, were furnished in these Reports, it was impracticable for the Commissioners to act upon them until the recommendations as to certain projected new unions, which were intended to comprise portions of Sligo, Ballinrobe, and Galway unions, should be received.

Steps were at once taken to procure sites for new workhouses in the several new unions then formed, and these arrangements are still in progress. In the mean time the administration of relief in the eight new unions was conducted for a few weeks by the justices qualified to act as ex officio guardians, according to the provisions of the 23rd section of 1 & 2 Vict. c. 56, until boards of guardians could be elected in the usual manner; and this having been done, the administration of relief has proceeded in those unions as elsewhere, the Commissioners having in all the cases, except that of Belmullet, which was already provided with a separate workhouse establishment, allotted a portion of the workhouse room in the parent union to the service of each new union, under the provisions of the 3rd section of the 12 & 13 Vict. cap. 104.

The only practical difficulty which has arisen in the conduct of the affairs of these unions arose from the great pressure of the debts owing to the contractors and other private parties in the districts in which they were formed.

To form the new union, a large number of townlands were separated from the old unions, in a state of debt which far exceeded the assets from outstanding rate, and those townlands could not legally carry with them any part of those funds, and were therefore dependent on external assistance, until the guardians could properly make new rates upon the Electoral Divisions formed from such townlands within the new union. This difficulty impeded for a time the formation of more new unions; but the alterations of boundaries of electoral divisions have been proceeded in, as far as they could be, in pursuance of recommendations contained in the Fifth Boundary Report, dated 1st November; the Sixth Report, dated 1st December; and the Seventh Report, dated 1st January last; and in pursuance of the further information which the Commissioners obtained from the Boundary Commissioners for this purpose. Acting on the recommendations contained in those Reports, the Commissioners have altered the Electoral Divisions of Clifden, Donegal, Glenties, and Newcastle unions.

Some inconvenience, however, has in these cases been found to arise in the attempt to re-arrange the Electoral Divisions of separate unions, when the Commissioners were not enabled at the same time to carry out the contemplated changes of boundaries in the adjoining unions. In considering the changes which have appeared to them to be required, the Boundary Commissioners have been frequently led to recommend the transference of single townlands from one union or electoral division to another; and in completing the arrangements proposed by them, a considerable number of such interchanges between adjacent unions will be effected. As all such changes involve an adjustment of the liabilities of all the townlands affected thereby, the Commissioners have found it necessary, while dealing with the cases of separate unions, to establish certain provisional arrangements, with a view to the avoidance of unnecessary trouble and expense; they have felt, however, that much advantage would result from the simultaneous readjustment of the boundaries throughout a considerable area, by which the necessity for such provisional arrangement might be dispensed with. The Commissioners have accordingly considered it exceedingly desirable that the declaration of the new unions and electoral divisions throughout the entire of the district west of the river Shannon, comprising the county of Clare, and nearly the entire province of Connaught, should be simultaneously effected in sufficient time to enable boards of guardians for the new unions to be elected within the period prescribed by the 20th sec. of 1 & 2 Vict. cap. 56.

The Commissioners have accordingly prepared Orders, which will take effect on Saturday next, the 23rd instant, for the declaration of the new unions of Tulla, Kildysart, Ballyvaugh, Corofin, Portumna, Glenamadda, Mount Bellew, Claremorris, Strokestown, and Tubbercurry, and for the re-arrangement of the electoral divisions in the old unions of Ennis, Kilrush, Ennistymon, Scariff, Loughrea, Gort, Galway, Ballinrobe, Tuam, Ballinasloe, Roscommon, Castlerea, Swineford, Sligo, and Boyle.

Within the area affected by these changes are situated the proposed new unions of Cussane and Riverstown, with respect to which the Commissioners have decided on postponing, at least for the present, to carry out the recommendations of the Boundary Commissioners, believing that no urgent necessity for the creation of a new union exists in those districts, and being aware of the existence of a considerable amount of opposition on the part of persons interested in the localities.

The Commissioners trust that they will in a short time be enabled to declare the new boundaries throughout a considerable area, comprising the counties of Cork, Kerry, and Limerick; and they will be prepared to proceed, as fast as circumstances will permit, in carrying out the further recommendations of the Boundary Commissioners, endeavouring as far as possible to effect the alterations in such a manner that they may come into force throughout a considerable district at the same period.

The Commissioners are not disposed to think that, under existing circumstances, it will be found necessary to form all the new unions, amounting to fifty in number, which have been proposed in the First Report of the Boundary Commissioners.

A reduction in the size of unions, and the consequent erection of new workhouses, are peculiarly desirable in the western districts of Ireland, but it may not be found necessary to make these alterations in other parts of the country to the entire extent proposed in the Boundary Reports.

The Commissioners will feel it their duty to attend to any considerations which may present themselves as to the propriety of forming or not forming unions, which were proposed under circumstances somewhat different from those which now exist in Ireland.

Upon this point the Commissioners are desirous of exercising the discretion which the law has given them, in accordance with the views of Her Majesty's Government, and in conformity with any instruction which Sir George Grey may deem it proper to communicate to them on the subject.

I have the honour to be,
SIR,
Your most obedient Servant,
W. STANLEY, Secretary.
